3.3. Definitions

“Canadian Triage and Acuity Scale” (CTAS) is a tool that enables Emergency Departments to prioritize patient care requirements. CTAS scores sexual assault as Level 2 (i.e. should be seen within 15 minutes) if the victim is physically traumatized, in pain, etc. Sexual assault is scored Level 4, otherwise (i.e. should be seen in 60 minutes).

“Emergency Services” are services provided by hospital-based emergency departments and rural health centres with emergency services (e.g. Whistler Health Care Centre, Pemberton Health Centre).

“Minimum Standard of Sexual Assault Health Care” is the Minimum Standard of Sexual Assault Health Care to be provided in response to sexual assault and depends on a site's geographic location.

“Sexual Assault” is any form of sexual contact without a person's consent. Consent is an active choice and the voluntary agreement of two adults to engage in sexual activity. Someone who is under the influence of medication, drugs/alcohol is not in the position to give consent.

“Staff” means all employees (including management and leadership), medical staff (including physicians, midwives, dentists, and nurses), residents, fellows and trainees, health care professionals, students, volunteers, contractors, researchers and other service providers engaged by VCH or PHC.

Appendix B: Policy Principles

Patient-Centred Care Principles:* includes but is not limited to:

- Confidentiality.
- Informed consent at all times.
- The right to be heard and listened to.
- Respect for patient choice.
- Appropriate timeliness of care.
- Convenience of care.
- Courtesy and respect throughout the process.
- Empathy from the caregiver.
- Non-judgmental care.
- An efficient care process that minimizes disruption.
- Outstanding communication with patients and among providers.
- The ability of and opportunity for the patient to play a central role throughout the care process.

*Adapted from "Making Patient-Centred Care Real: The Road to Implementation: A Discussion Paper for the Saskatchewan Ministry of Health" (November 2009).

Recognized Health Issue: The provision of sexual assault health care is within the scope of emergency-based care.

Reasonable Access: Patients choosing to report sexual assault to police must have reasonable access to facilities offering medical-forensic examination as there is a limited time after a sexual assault during which viable forensic samples can be collected.

Inclusiveness: Sexual assault health care is offered to people of any age, sexual orientation, gender, and physical, mental or cognitive ability.

Cultural Appropriateness: Local protocols and procedures must meet the needs of different cultural groups in order to ensure accessible and effective sexual assault health care for Aboriginal peoples, ethnocultural groups, the transgendered population, and other groups who often encounter barriers in accessing services. If a patient is not comfortable communicating in English, staff should seek a professional, external, impartial interpreter of the same gender unless impossible, unreasonable or not to the patient's preference.

Patient Confidentiality: Due to the stigma and shame associated with being sexually assaulted, survivors often feel intimidated and fearful when they enter an emergency department. Maintaining a patient's privacy and confidentiality is a top priority.

Informed Consent: Informed consent must be obtained before proceeding with any aspect of sexual assault health care and/or medical-forensic examination. The patient should receive information about and control all aspects of her/his care, including decisions regarding medical and legal options, and the involvement of other people. This is an important first step in helping the patient regain control after a sexual assault. Special consideration for consent must be made for those adults who are not considered capable of consenting to health care or for adults who meet the criteria of the Adult Guardianship Act. In these situations, staff must follow the VCH Abuse, Neglect or Self-Neglect of Vulnerable Adults policy.

Supportive Caregiver Attitude: Sexual assault survivors are believed and offered emotional support. Staff acknowledges that sexual assault can happen to anyone - regardless of how a person dresses, where they go or what they do. The assailant, not the survivor, is deemed responsible for the sexual assault. Staff also recognizes that because individuals respond to trauma differently, any and all behaviour exhibited by the survivor is considered a normal response to the traumatic event.

Long-Term Impact: Given the long-term emotional and psychosocial impact of sexual assault, access to options for aftercare is vital. Access to community-based, anti-violence (counseling/victim services) organizations and other supports is equally important as acute care and can be essential to the survivor for dealing with the aftermath of sexual assault.

Cross-Sectoral Issue: It is essential to provide comprehensive care that extends beyond acute care walls and into the community. Sexual assault requires a coordinated response from health care, community support services, police and Crown counsel.
